*Total Minimum Payment Due: The total minimum payment due amount, as outlined on your most recent credit card statement, will be withdrawn. If a payment that does not satisfy the total minimum payment due amount, as outlined on your most recent credit card statement, is applied to your account prior to the total minimum payment due date, as outlined on your most recent credit card statement, the amount equal to the difference will be withdrawn. If the total minimum payment due is satisfied prior to the total minimum payment due date no pre-authorized debit payment will be withdrawn during the same billing cycle period.

New Balance/Grace Period Payment Amount: The New Balance amount as outlined on your most recent credit card statement will be withdrawn, unless you have an MBNA Payment Plan in your MBNA credit card account. If you have any MBNA Payment Plans, then after the Payment Plan is shown on your account's monthly statement, we will instead start to withdraw the Grace Period Payment Amount shown on your statement each month until the Payment Plan(s) in your account have expired or are cancelled. (The Grace Period Payment Amount is the New Balance outlined on your credit card statement less any Monthly Plan Payments for your Payment Plans that are not yet due that month). After the expiry of all Payment Plans in your MBNA account, the New Balance outlined on your most recent credit card statement will be what is then withdrawn each month. The New Balance or Grace Period Payment Amount (as applicable) will be withdrawn regardless of any other payment(s) made on your MBNA account during the same billing cycle period. Please note that if a Purchase is converted into a Payment Plan after the Purchase was shown on your account's monthly statement, the PAD for that statement period will continue to pay the New Balance amount that was shown on that monthly statement. This may result in your PAD paying down a partial or full amount of the new Payment Plan(s).

Fixed Amount: The fixed amount, as indicated by you, will be withdrawn on either the date requested or on your total minimum payment due date, as outlined on your most recent credit card statement. If your new balance total is less than the fixed amount, as indicated by you, only the new balance total amount will be withdrawn.
